Getting Prepared for the 1930 U.S. Federal Census

Most of us are anxiously awaiting the opening of the 1930 U.S. Census, Population Schedules scheduled for 1 April 2002. That's the good news!

Now for the bad news—very few states have been soundexed. Indexes using the soundex indexing system exist for the state of Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky (partial), Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, and West Virginia (partial). Those of us who will need to (and/or just desire to) find our families in the non-soundexed states, or portions thereof, will find the search much more agreeable if we are prepared. At this point, most of us have located your families in the 1920 U.S. Census, and have a good idea of where the families were located in 1930. For those of us research families that resided in large cities, it will be worth our time to search out city directories for our locations of interest (see Introduction to City Directories elsewhere in this issue). The National Archives and its regional branches have a large collection of 1930 city directories to help researchers find their ancestors on the 1930 U.S. Census. Once an address has been determined, it will be beneficial to review the geographic decryptions of census enumeration districts available on microfilm at various National Archives repositories and the Family History Library. The enumeration districts are described on the National Archives micropublication T1224, *Descriptions of Census Enumeration Districts, 1830-1950 (156 rolls).

Even though we think we know all we need to know about families that will appear on this 1930 population schedule, it is important that we review the 1930 U.S. Census. Questions asked on the 1930 Census (see figures 1, 2, & 3):

1880 Illinois Soundex

Part III

Part III of the 1880 Illinois Soundex is continued from WOODWARDS WeSearch Vol. 9 (April 2000). We need to remember that the 1880 soundex does not name every individual or every head of house. The index only applies to households containing at least one child age 10 or younger. Therefore, if we are searching for an individual who does not reside in a home with a child age 10 or younger, then each page of a particular census location (state and county) must be diligently viewed to find that individual or family.

Readers are urged to use the data herein to guide them to the actual 1880 Federal Census Population Schedule. There is a lot more information on the actual census form that will help define the families.

Additional Schedules

The Bureau of Census publication, 200 Years of U.S. Census Taking, tells us that about two additional schedules taken in 1930: The “Unemployment Schedule” and the “Indian Population Schedule” (enumerators were given the general instructions to “Enter on this schedule the name, sex, age, degree of blood, tribe, post-office address, and agency where enrolled of any person in your district who is an Indian”).

A recent inquiry to the National Archives indicates that these schedules produced this reply:

The unemployment schedule definitely did not survive. No one is quite sure about the Indian schedule, although the general consensus is that it probably did not survive. If they did survive and were microfilmed, then they will be available with the regular population schedules. I’m sorry we can’t be more specific about the Indian schedules.
